

About AGA Members

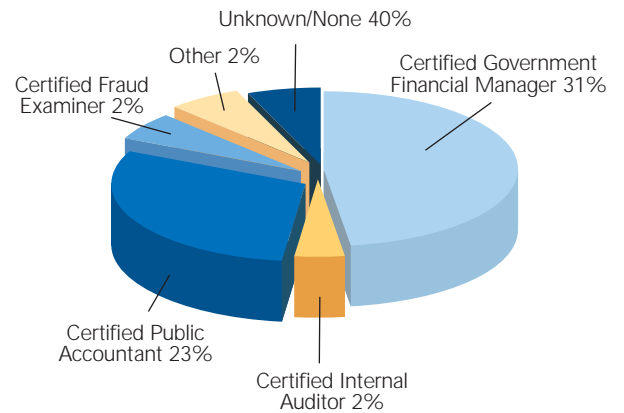

“The networking and information available through AGA every day ensures that you are ready for changes in the field. It’s very important to always be aware of what’s going on, from all sides. The greatest value of an AGA membership is being connected to the people, information, news and leaders important to us—all the time.”

—John Hummel, CGFM, Partner, KPMG

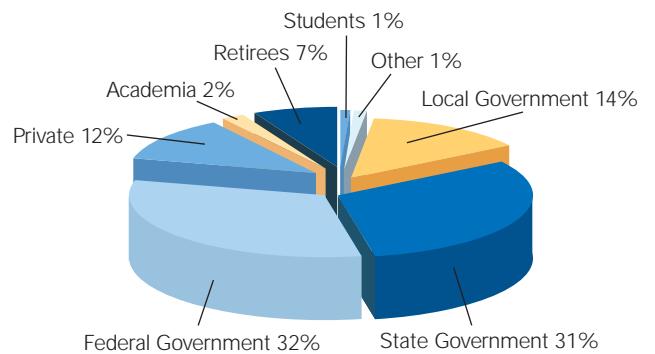

“Financial management in government today changes at the speed of light with more risk than ever. AGA opens opportunities for networking, training, research and development to help each other share the load. We’re in this together, and it’s nice to know that I can count on my AGA friends and colleagues for help.”

—John J. Radford, CGFM, Controller, State of Oregon
