GAO Highlights 2025 High Risk List to Improve Government Efficiency

The U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO) has released its 2025 High Risk List, identifying 38 areas vulnerable to fraud, waste, abuse, and mismanagement. The biennial report highlights progress in 10 areas, resulting in $84 billion in financial benefits, while also adding a new area—Improving the Delivery of Federal Disaster Assistance. Three areas, including DOD Weapon Systems Acquisition and IT Acquisitions, regressed.

GAO's list underscores opportunities for cost savings, with improper payments in high-risk programs totaling $2.8 trillion since 2003. Key focus areas include modernizing IT, strengthening cybersecurity, addressing public health risks, and tackling human capital challenges. Congressional and executive action remains critical to resolving these long-standing issues.
