PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

By Grace S. Ragni, CGFM, CPA, CISA, CIA

It's the beginning of the fiscal year again! It seems it was not too long ago that we started this year, and now we are just about to start a new one. We all know what this means relative to the schedule of our accountants, particularly those involved in the preparation of the year-end financial statements. In June, despite everyone's busy schedule, the officers of the AGA Silicon Valley managed to meet and plan its activities for the coming year.

As the incoming president of AGA Silicon Valley Chapter, I hope to meet you at one of our chapter meetings. I am back to lead the chapter. I was the chapter president for the fiscal years 2009 to 2010, and was able to garner the highest AGA National Chapter Recognition Award (Platinum). With co-officers' support and our chapter's members at large, I would like to repeat, if not exceed, that performance.

I would like to thank Ben Lau, the outgoing Chapter President, for two excellent years. Recognition also goes to the rest of the team whose dedication and volunteer work are very much appreciated – Dat Nguyen, for keeping our treasury in order, Scott Diem, for the well documented minutes, Harjot Sangha, for the timely communication of our chapter activities, Kim-Le Anh, for organizing the training courses, Sydney Chui, for accepting the task of reviving the chapter's newsletter and updating the web, and Alex Guiang, for the never-ending support provided to the chapter as it relates to community service and serving as the chapter's historian. Their impressive resumes are included in the newsletter. One commonality among them is that each one has special talents and skills to offer in furthering our chapter. We are glad and grateful to have all of them form part of this promising organization.

We will start the year with a speak-up on Fraud by Scott Johnson and Ric Jazaie, both from Macias Gini & O'Connell, LLP. This topic has been very popular as lessons learnt from this training could immediately be applied to our normal course of business; some of them are even applicable to dealings affecting our personal life. On future professional development meetings, I would like you to feel free to let me know what topics you are interested to have so we can try our best to bring them to you. We also encourage you to be part of the AGA Family and together, experience another fruitful and fun-filled year ahead!

Perspective: Attending AGA 2016 Professional Development Training

By: Alex Guiang, CGFM (Ret), CICA
Board Member and Past Chapter President

I recently had the opportunity to attend this year's AGA's Annual Professional Development Training (PDT) as member of the PDT Host Committee. Also in attendance from our chapter was Grace S. Ragni, our Chapter President, who represented our chapter. The PDT was held in Anaheim Convention Center, Anaheim, California from July 17 through July 20, 2016. The PDT Host Committee members electronically scanned the attendees' badge at each session attended to ensure CPEs are awarded to them. Attendees, who reflect the diverse memberships of AGA, are from local and state governments, federal agencies, and government contractors/consultants. Like in the past PDTs I attended, I enjoyed every bit of it, met and reconnected with AGA members and government financial management leaders from all over the country. Most important of all, I got the chance to attend the educational sessions (very impressive speakers) where I was assigned to check-in/out and scan the attendees' badge. The PDT had 115 educational sessions to choose from and the attendees (around 1,500) were able to earn 24 CPE hours on specific areas of study that best suited for their continuing professional development like: accounting and auditing, behavioral ethics, business management and organization, communications, computer science, finance, management advisory services personal development, and personnel/HR.

Elaine Howle, California State Auditor, at the Opening Ceremony financial managers, government finance policy makers and leaders, and government contractors/consultants.

The educational sessions were exceptionally pulled together by this year's PDT Technical Committee which was co-chaired by: Elaine Howle, CGFM, CPA, California State Auditor; Bryan Jester, Senior Vice President CACI International; and Tony Scardino, CGFM, Chief Financial Officer, USPTO. The Technical Committee, which was composed of 34 government financial managers and leaders all over the country worked with AGA's chief executive officer in developing a quality technical program for this year's Professional Development Training. They ensured that the educational sessions are responsive to the needs of government

John Homan MBA, CGFM, CPA, CGMA, 2015-2016 AGA National President and Elaine Howle, CGFM, CPA, California State Auditor, welcomed the attendees at the opening ceremony followed by a one-to-one interview by Ann Ebbert, AGA CEO on Gene Dodaro, CGFM, Comptroller General of the United States and head of the U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO). The U.S. Comptroller General talked on the highlights of the U.S. government's financial status.

Like in the past PDTs, Rene Gillman, the Chairperson of AGA's Community Service National Fund (NCSF) Campaign spearheaded the raising of funds for the NCSF through silent auctions, raffle tickets, and participation of various AGA Chapters on the chapter challenge. Proceeds from this community service campaign are split to five charities and the NCSF. This is one way AGA gives back to the community at the national level. For the program year 2015-16, NCSF has helped 27 charities. Grace S. Ragni, Chapter President and I presented our chapter donation of $100 to the AGA NCSF Campaign.

At the Exhibitor's Hall, there were 42 booths occupied by the AGA corporate partners and various government consultants/contractors. The Exhibitors provided information about their services and technology to help attendees do their job more effectively and efficiency. And as a gesture of gratitude for visiting their booth, the Exhibitors offered them a small token item. At the last day of the training, AGA President's Appreciation Night was held with live band, dancing and lots of food.

Overall, it was fun and worth attending as it refreshed and updated me on the tasks of government financial managers and leaders in advancing government accountability and transparency. For those who had not attended any PDT, I encourage you to attend next year training in Boston, Massachusetts from July 9 through July 12, 2017 – see for yourself and experience the excitement of being at the PDT!

Chapter Community Service

The Association of Government Accountants – Silicon Valley Chapter is scheduled for a Food Sort Community Service at the Second Harvest Food Bank This will be a rewarding, fun-filled event for AGA members and non-members alike.

CGFM Certification

What is CGFM?

Certified Government Financial Manager® (CGFM®) is a professional certification recognizing the unique skills and special knowledge required of today's government financial managers. It covers governmental accounting, auditing, financial reporting, internal controls and budgeting at the federal, state and local levels.

To earn the CGFM, individuals must apply for the CGFM program and meet the following requirements:

- Ethics — read and agree to abide by AGA's Code of Ethics;
- Education — have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university;
- Examinations — pass three comprehensive CGFM examinations;
- Experience — have at least two years of professional-level experience in government financial management.

Why Hire a Certified Government Financial Manager?

CGFM exemplifies experience and proficiency, distinguishing individuals who have made a significant commitment to their professional development. A CGFM has:

- Increased knowledge of government financial management: CGFMs must pass three rigorous examinations, covering key topics including federal, state and local accounting and reporting; financial management functions; performance measurement; internal controls and auditing.
- Better understanding of the big picture of government: CGFMs recognize how the different components of government financial management fit together, and they understand their role in the process.
- Greater confidence on the job: The CGFM certification is directly applicable to the everyday duties of government financial professionals, at every level. It can help a new employee hit the ground running, while enhancing the performance of existing employees.

Special Agent/Intelligence Analyst for the FBI, and a mid-level auditor with the California Department of Finance. He has also testified on many depositions, Federal Grand Juries, and served one term with the San Francisco Civil Grand Jury investigating City's business practices.

Ric has earned his Master of Accountancy with an emphasis in Financial Forensics from Golden Gate University. Ric is a Certified Public Accountant (CPA) and a Chartered Global Management Accountant (CGMA), as well as a Certified Fraud Examiner (CFE), Certified in Financial Forensics (CFF), and a Certified Information Systems Auditor (CISA). He is involved with the local Association of Certified Fraud Examiners and provides lectures to the general membership on fraud risk assessments and the whistleblower programs.

Value of CGFM Certification

Below are some testimonies of the value of CGFM certification from those who hold it:

John Homan, MBA, CGFM, CPA, CGMA

2015-2016 AGA National President

Senior Manager, CliftonLarsonAllen LLP

"When I was looking to advance my career in the government space, obtaining the CGFM became a primary focus because of the universal esteem in which it is held in federal, state and local governments, and the recognition it has garnered in the accounting profession. No other credential more directly recognizes competence in government finance and accounting than the CGFM."

Kelly Stefanko, CGFM, CPA

2015-2016 Chair, AGA's Professional Certification Board

"The CGFM is about defining your professional identity. The CGFM says that you are competent, curious and continuously improving. What do you want to stand for as a professional?"

Riley Shaull, CGFM, CPA

Chief Financial Officer, Oklahoma Employment Security Commission

"I recently transferred to a new position within the state of Oklahoma. Although I have worked for the state for 20 years, this position was a change from anything within financial management that I had done in the past. The knowledge I obtained earning my CGFM certification gave me the confidence to accept this new challenge, knowing I had the skills and confidence to tackle these new responsibilities."

Beryl H. Davis, CGFM

Director, Financial Management and Assurance, U.S. Government Accountability Office

"The CGFM certification is a widely and highly respected certification that demonstrates an individual's knowledge and skills as a public-sector financial manager. It also requires the holder to subscribe to a code of ethics. People respect the certification, and I believe that holding this certification during most of my career has enhanced my credibility as a government financial manager."

Gerry Boaz, CGFM, CPA

Technical Manager, Tennessee Division of State Audit

"Having the CGFM certification has first and foremost enhanced my salary. Beyond the pay, the CGFM has opened up opportunities I do not believe would have been possible without the certification. In this environment of intense competition for the best talent, the CGFM is a must. It helped me stand out from others and demonstrated my broad knowledge of the governmental environment; governmental accounting; financial reporting; budgeting; and governmental internal control management and auditing."
