

Elizabeth Olusola is a senior accounting major, who balances her academics with her involvement in other clubs and extracurricular activities. She is an active member of the Beta Alpha Psi accounting Kappa chapter, the investment club, and the finance club on campus. She also tutors students as part of CASA Academy in Math, English, and accounting related courses. Through the CCR for Montgomery/PG County Chapter of the Association of Government Accountants, she learned how to use various resources and real-time data to successfully communicate and summarize key traits and developments that make each county unique. She hopes to use her analytical skills and experience gained through this team project to make better future decisions and contributions in her professional career and community.
