

Clint TuttleSenior Lecturer, Information, Risk, and Operations Management Department*University of Texas at Austin*Provost Teaching Fellow

Clint grew up in a used-to-be small town in the piney woods of East Texas and went to UT McCombs for undergrad. After 9 years with Accenture, he did part-time marketing consulting while teaching part-time at UT as an Adjunct. After 1 semester, he fell in love with teaching and has been doing it full-time for 9 years where he loves teaching about technology, agile, and having a growth mindset. He has also shared his passions and philosophy about learning in TEDx talks. Clint is married and lives in Austin and enjoys hiking, making silly parodies about tech on YouTube, and talking about failure.

