

Maine Chapter AGA Presents:

Dave Weinberg

Taking Care of People...

The resource that really matters is people. You know we have to take care of people, but do you really know what that means? The challenges of today make it more important than ever, especially when you are trying to balance the people you take care of both at work and at home. This presentation will walk you through a simple to use, simple to understand list of fun-filled anecdotes that you can use in everyday life. In fact, the lessons you'll take away will help shape your leadership style and how you deal with people both at work and at home. Taking care of people is important, both at work and at home. Learn what it means so you can do it deliberately and improve upon it every day. Listen, learn and laugh with this high-energy presentation that will leave you wanting more!
