Our Finances

Revenues and Expenses

What are the costs for servicing our members and how are those costs paid?

The VA Peninsula Chapter does not collect chapter dues from its members, so all revenue to provide for chapter services must be raised. We generally do this through holding two professional development training (PDTs) annually, one in the fall and one in the spring. In 2023, we held our 28th annual fall conference, the AGA Commonwealth PDT, together with the Richmond, Southwest VA, and Shenandoah Valley chapters of AGA.

Thanks to the success of prior years' PDTs and the chapter's conservative spending, we were fortunate to have enough account balance (in 2022-2023) to make a significant investment into the future of our profession in endowing a scholarship.

What's Next?

Key Initiatives

VA Peninsula AGA's plan for 2024-2025 is to continue to pivot, advance, grow and accelerate in this uncertain environment. New members are crucial in infusing new and innovative ideas that will impact change and the opportunity we can provide. For our chapter, like many others, success depends on being able to engage and retain our current members as well as recruit new members. We continually look for volunteers to help us plan and offer member services.

We seek to improve our social media presence, expanding our organization's visibility on platforms like LinkedIn and Facebook to attract potential members. Our volunteers continue to hone skills using audio-visual equipment and offering valuable training using remote tools such as zoom and MS-Teams. We continue to offer our members free access to our monthly meetings, which are worth 1 CPE each. Our CGFM study group meets consistently, has grown and we expect several new CGFMs this year.

We will continue to work with our PDT partners in offering our 29th Annual Commonwealth PDT with 3 fellow chapters in Virginia and our second Spring PDT with the Southside Chapter of ASMC (now Society of Defense Management).

2024-2025 Chapter Goals:

- Grow Membership
- Increase Overall Membership Satisfaction
- Host Commonwealth PDT- December 2024
- Host Spring 2025 PDT
- Average 100 attendees in-person and another 100 virtually for fall and spring PDTs
- Provide CGFM candidates support
- Maintain chapter's website and Facebook
- Participate in Clean the Bay
